RECEPTION AND BALL. Odd Fellows' Celebration Closes With a Brilliant Function. The Odd Fellows of the District, who yesterday celebrated the eighty-second anniversary of the formation of their order, brought the day to a close with a reception and ball in Convention Hall. Elaborate preparations had been made for this final event and a number of active committees had been at work for weeks. The great auditorium was very prettily decorated. The stage was a bower of flowers. A temporary stand had been constructed at one side of the hall, and from this vantage point the guests of the evening reviewed the promenade and the later festivities, The reception began shortly after 8 o'clock, when Mr. John B. Goodwin, former mayor of Atlanta, Ga., and deputy grand sire of the order, and Mr. J. Frank Grant of Kentucky, grand secre-

the long receiving line. They were as-sisted by the officers of the Grand Lodge and the Grand Encampment of the Dis-trict of Columbia, and the ladies' social committee. At 9 o'clock the opening promenade was announced, and from that hour until late this morning the merrymaking continued. Refreshments were served during the even-tary of the Sovereign Council were escorted into the building and took their places in

After The Star's report of the meeting at the National Theater yesterday after-noon closed, Mr. J. Fred Grant, grand secretary of the order, spoke at some length on the high principles the Odd Fellows inculcate in their brethren, and of the vast amount of good accomplished by the organization.

When he had concluded Mrs. Thomas C.

Noyes rendered a soprano solo. Mrs. Noyes was enthusiastically welcomed, and when she had finished her song was given a second ovation, graciously responding with an encore. Angelo C. Fronani acted as accompanist.

The next address was delivered by Mr. Goodwin of Atlanta, the deputy grand sire. He spoke upon the charitable work accomplished by Odd Fellows throughout the world, saying that the order gives annually $4,000,000 to that purpose. He painted a roseate picture of the future, and urged all members of the organization to labor for its continued prosperity and welfare.
